The evidence against him was of the most horrible nature and completely bore out all that The Evening World has charged of the practises of men of his kind. The other case, which is to be disposed of on Friday, is that of Hom Sing posed of on Friday, is that of Hom Sing Lou, a Chinese laundryman, whose place of business on Clinton street was used by himself, and, it is alleged, by other Chinamen, as a convenient place to lure little girls. Fifteen children, ranging in age from eight to fifteen years, identified him.

He had made a practise for years of luring children into his place by promises of candy and money. He was to have been sentenced to-day at the same time that Smith was sent away, but owing to some technicality his sentence was postponed until Friday and he was sent back to the Tombs in the meantime.

ASSEMBLY KILLS LIQUOR VOTE BILL.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ALBANY, April 12.—The Assembly killed to-day the Walnwright bill allowing presidential districts in cities to owing presidential districts in clues to vote on the question of liquor selling. The vote was 73 in dayor and 60 against. The number required to pass the measure was 76.

The Republican leaders were against the bill, but to cover up that fact they had lined up against the measure just enough members to prevent its passage.
